Kent Economic Partnership Hires New Business Developer

Dover, Del. – Kent Economic Partnership has hired Zachary Prebula to be the new Business Developer. The business developer is responsible for promoting Central Delaware as an attractive business location for local businesses to expand and attraction of new businesses to the area. As Business Developer, Zach will be focusing on local business retention and expansion while supporting ongoing projects in the pipeline.

Zach was born and raised in Delaware and graduated from Caesar Rodney High School. After Caesar Rodney, Zach attended Delaware Technical Community College and graduated with an Associates Degree in General Business. Zach continued his education through Salisbury University where he acquired his Bachelors of Science Degree in Business Economics. While at Salisbury University he obtained experience in banking and business development through his internships at First Shore Federal Savings & Loans and Tidal Health. Zach spent two years working in economic development at Salisbury Wicomico Economic Development Organization.

The Kent Economic Partnership is the Economic Development Agency for Kent County, focusing on business attraction and retention programs, and promoting better employment opportunities for Central Delaware residents. In support of economic development that creates and sustains a diverse business climate in Central Delaware, the Kent Economic Partnership is joined by municipal governments and the private sector to create a unified voice for the County.
